Congress has made an appropriation to aid West Virginia flood sufferers.

Admiral Dewey says the attacks on the U. S. Navy are as false as they are shameful. He goes into detail to show that the navy is in better condition in every way than ever before in its history.

Mr. Hughes thinks it is a crime to have prosperity under a Democratic administration. He admits that he doesn't understand it, as it does not fit into his theories. This only proves that his theories are wrong.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the Interior; Judge George Gray, of Wilmington, Del., and Dr. John R. Mott, of New York City, were appointed the American members of the joint commission to undertake settlement of the differences between the United States and Mexico.

September 12 has been set aside at the Kentucky State Fair at Louisville as "Governors' and Military Day." A special invitation is extended to every Confederate veteran in the State to be present. Wear your uniform if you have one and meet at the office of Secretary Gooch at 11 a. m.

The number of wage earners has increased from 6,000,000 in 1912 to 8,500,000 in 1916 and the wages paid them is more than $2,000,000,000 more since the inauguration of a Democratic administration. It is to the interest of those who toil to do everything they can to continue a state of affairs so favorable to them, and from all indications there will be more wage earners to vote for Democracy's nominees than ever before.

President Wilson made a dramatic appeal to the railroad officials to abandon their insistence on arbitration of the dispute threatening a nation-wide strike and told them that if a strike comes the public will know where the responsibility rests. He issued a statement saying that the public had a right to expect acceptance of his plan. The officials refused for the present, but withheld a final answer. In a statement they declared that refusal of the employees to arbitrate indicated the unreasonableness of the demands.

If President Wilson shall succeed in averting the big railway strike he will have earned not only his salary and his spurs, but re-election to the highest office in the land. No greater avoidable calamity can scarcely be conceived than such a tie-up as is contemplated by the trainmen. The men have accepted the President's compromise proposition, and the railway managers will probably agree to it, after some resistance. Increase in freight and passenger rates will finally come along as the result of the continued demands for higher wages, but it all seems inevitable.

WAYNE, WEST VA.

Mrs. W. J. Napier, Wayne, died Sunday, August 13, after a month's illness. Mrs. Napier was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chapman Adkins.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. W. Damron, Monday, after which the body was interred in the Wayne cemetery.

The surviving relatives are three children and husband, mother, five brothers and three sisters besides a number of other relatives a host of warm friends.

Pastor Damron of the Baptist church is holding a series of meetings this week. He has invited a number to occupy the pulpit one night each.

Monday night Rev. P. H. Wilson formerly pastor of the Wayne church of Mill Creek preached a very able sermon on the Power of the Holy Spirit. His sermon was enjoyed by those who heard him. He is a grandson of the Rev. John Jarrel, who in his day was one of the foremost ministers of the county.

The county lost one of its most honored mothers when Mrs. Anna Copley, of Hurricane, died a few days ago. Mrs. Copley's good influence is still moving among her neighbors, who are unanimous in their praise of this Christian woman.

Misses Gladys Land, Carrie Randall, Louisa, and Miss Hess Marcum, Ceredo, have been visiting Mrs. Fisher Shager.

Mrs. D. B. Hardwick, who underwent an operation last Friday for appendicitis, has recovered nicely.—News.

There Are Some Mighty Good Stores In Huntington

Ordinarily, Huntington is a good and sensible place to shop—no city of its size can offer better inducements to the out of town shopper—and it is within striking distance of you. Dollar Day, with its many opportunities, will bring out the best that is in Huntington and will be a revelation to the most thrifty.

There will be things to eat, things to wear, things for comfort and for pleasure and their price inducements will be second only to their desirability—for participating firms are pledged to offer only what they would consider unusual values—from the buyer's standpoint.

If you live within one hundred miles of Huntington, come—your car fare will be a small item compared with your savings.

Remember, September 7th—Huntington, West Va.
